To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing to recommend Gideon Afriyie in support of his application for internship opportunities. I was the Lead Instructor during the Brighter Generation Virtual Summer Teaching Program, where Gideon volunteered as an Instructor's Assistant. This program delivers English, communication, and leadership skills to high school students in Ethiopia.

Gideon exhibited an exceptional degree of professionalism, maturity, and initiative. He embraced responsibilities that extended well beyond his technical studies, demonstrating a commitment to personal growth and meaningful community service. Due to the time difference between the United States and Ethiopia, the instructional sessions were conducted during the early morning hours, typically from 2:00 a.m. to 4:00 a.m. Despite the difficult schedule, combined with frequent power outages and intermittent connectivity that often-extended session times, Gideon remained committed to make an impact. His perseverance under adverse conditions reflected both resilience and a strong standard of excellence.

Gideon's responsibilities included assisting with instructional delivery, grading homework, evaluating student progress, and providing timely, constructive feedback. He executed his duties with care, accuracy, and professionalism. His work ethic and dependability made him an invaluable partner and a steady source of support for students.

Gideon proved to be well-rounded, adaptable, and highly teachable. He consistently upheld high expectations of himself and demonstrated a genuine interest in fostering academic and personal growth among the students. His performance throughout the program is a strong indicator of his potential to excel in any professional or academic environment.

For these reasons, I recommend Gideon without reservation for any internship or developmental opportunity he pursues. He would be an asset to any organization.

Sincerely,
